PROHIBS AT WAR IN COURT

Ritter-Hinkle Libel Suit Proves a Drawing Attraction This Week.

The Captain Had a Little the Best of It Yesterday-I, D. & W. First Mortgage Bonds Good-Burns Convicted.

Considerable interest is centered in the attraction now on the boards in the Circuit Court room before Judge Bartholomew, of the Superior Court bench. The cause that will occupy the attention of the court for several days is the Ritter-Hinkle libel suit. Some time ago, when Capt. Eli Ritter was talked of as the Prohibition candidate for the presidency. Leonard Hinkle published in the Phalanx, the party organ, and in a circular, statements alleged to be derogatory to Ritter's character, and especially his professional integrity. Ritter brought suit against the author of the publication, asking $10,000 damages. The case was filed in the Circuit Court, and an affidavit for a change of venue from the judge having been filed, Judge Bartholomew was called into the case. Capt. S. M. Snepard appears for Mr. Ritter and McCullough & Spaan for Hinkle. In the opening statement made to the jury Mr. Spaan delineated the facts which he claimed the defense would be able to prove. He claimed that the defense would be able to prove unfair treatment of his client by Captain Ritter, and would also prove that he was not loyal to the party, in support of which he said they would prove that Mr. Ritter, in 1884, supported Blaine, although there was a Prohibition candidate in the field. The defense pleads justification, and claim that inasmuch as Capt. Ritter was a candidate for the nomination for the presidency it was proper that the people should know what sort of a man he

w. V. Rooker was the first witness for the plaintiff and testified to statements made to him by Hinkle concerning Mr. Ritter prior to the latter's candidacy. Mr. Rose, one of Captain Ritter's bitterest opponents, was put upon the stand and testified as to the printing of the alleged libelous circular. Mr. Rose said that the circular had been printed for use at the Prohibition convention, in Cincinnati, to defeat Ritter; but that they were not so used. Rose became terribly mixed under Mr. Bhepard's questioning. and his testimony lacked consistency.

Among other things, the circular which has caused the trouble accused Mr. Ritter of dealing unfairly with Hinkle when he was defending the latter at Noblesville on a charge of assault and battery, of which he was convicted. Judge Chapin, of An-derson, who presided at the trial of that case, was introduced by the plaintiff and testified that the defense was skillfully conducted and that all it was possible for an attorney to do in the case was to soften the feelings of the jury against the defend-ant. A vigorous fight is being made on both sides, Mr. Ritter seeking vindication more than money, and the defense fighting hard on the line of justification. The trial will probably occupy several days.

Burns Sentenced.

Joseph Burns was on trial in the Criminal Court room, yesterday, charged with robbery. He was tried about a week ago in connection with Charles Nicewander, for the same offense. Nicewander was convicted and sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary, but Burns was acquitted. He was indicted for another robbery, being accused of having robbed John Cominsky on the night of Oct. 16. Burns proved an alibi for that night, but, it appearing that the crime was committed shortly after midnight of the day previous, he asked and was granted permission to introduce evidence as to his whereabouts on that night, and proved an alibi for that night

The jury, after wrangling with the evidence for about four hours, returned a verdict of guilty, and fixed Burns's punishment at seven years in the penitentiary and a fine of $200.

I., D. & W. Bonds Good. A suit of long standing was decided in the Supreme Court yesterday, it being that of Benjamin F. Sands and R. B. F. Peirce, trustees, against the I., D. & W. railway. It was to enforce the security of a first mortgage amounting to $1,800,000. Sands and Peirce were successors to Emmott and Crane, deceased, and the suit was brought in 1875, in the Marion County Superior Court on the securities of the mortgage given for bonds. The Farmers' Loan and Trust Company and Noble C. Butler, trustee, holders of junior mort-gages, were also made defendants. Judgment was rendered to Sands and Peirce in the Superior Court, was later affirmed by the Superior Court general term, and was yesterday reaffirmed by the Supreme Court, Judge Olds writing the opinion.

Scanlon Damage Suit, The hearing of the evidence was completed yesterday morning in the Scanion damage suit against the city wherein Mrs. Stella O. Scanlon seeks $25,000 against the city for injuries received by having her foot caught in a defective culvert. The greater part of the day was spent in argument by the attorneys, who made frequent use of the pair of shoes worn by Mrs. Scanlon at the time. Mr. Potts, who appears for the plaintiff, used them to emphatically illustrate, in connection with a diagram of the culvert, just how the accident happened. After about fifteen minutes' deliberation, the jury brought in a sealed verdiet, to be opened this morning. Fled with Another Woman.

Jessie Ryan yesterday began suit in the Superior Court, seeking a divorce from Harry Ryan on the grounds of unfaithfulness, abandonment and failure to provide Mrs. Ryan alleges that the defendant had been intimate with one Myrtle Thompson, and that he had abandoned her (Mrs. Ryan) and fled to Chicago with the other woman, leaving her in a destitute condition. Before leaving for Chicago, Ryan induced his wife to sign a chattel mortgage upon all their household effects by a misrepresentation of facts, and after securing about $500 upon them left her. In her complaint Mrs. Ryan asks for custody of their two chilesen and $1,000 alimony.

Contractors Sued by the Government. Last year the United States government advertised for bids for the erection of some buildings on government ground at Fort Thomas, in Kentucky. The firm of Barnes & Barnes, of Logansport, were the lowest bidders. Their figures were accepted, and they then refused to make the contract. The next lowest bidder performed the work at a price that was $7,060 in excess of the Logansport men. The government, through its attorney, Smiley N. Chambers, brought suit in the United States Court Lesterday to recover that amount, making John Barnes, Charles Barnes, Dennis Uhl and Andrew Stevens defendants. The two last are sureties.

Probated at the Judge's Home. The will of George Goegler was probated yesterday before Judge Brown at his residence, No. 184 Broadway. By the provisions of the will all the property went to his wife, but as his wife died before he did the will was of no effect, the property, which is not large, going to the four children. The proceeding of admitting the will to probate in the manner in which it was done was the subject of some comment among attorneys in view of the fact that it has not been over a month since the Judge in his decision in the Rice will contest held that wills must be probated in open court.

Girls on Trial. Annie McMath, Hattie Stone and Nettie Hobbs, the three colored girls indicted for assault and battery with intent to kill, were placed on trial and the evidence partially heard and the case continued until to-day in order to secure the attendance of absent witnesses. The offense for which the three girls are being tried was committed on the West Market about two weeks ago, when they attacked another colored girl and slashed her terribly with a pocket-knife, inflicting five very painful, but not serious wounds.

Judgment for a Large Amount. The National Bank of Rockville, Ind., was given judgment against Mercy Murry and Lewis Holloway for $10,488.40 on four notes vesterday before Judge Harper. The defendants, who compose the firm of Mercy Murry & Co., recently made an assignment for the benefit of their creditors.

The Court Record. SUPREME COURT OPINIONS.

16550. L. D. & W. Railway Company vs. Benjamin A. Sands et al. Marion S. C. Affirmed. Olds. J.—A cause as to parties entering into an agreement and consenting to a judgment will not be considered in this court on its merits, but it should be affirmed where the court had jurisdiction. The fact that the judgment rendered is broader and to some extent without the limits of the allegations of the complaint, can make no difference. 2. Where the evidence in a cause was concluded and an endeavor was made between counsel for their respective clients to enter into an agreement in regard to the final judgment that should be entered by the court, and an agreement was drafted with a final decree to be entered which was signed by some of the parties, and attorneys for others indorsed the decree "O. K." and signed their names, and it was handed to the judge, seld, under these circumstances, such parties consented to the decree.

15959. James F. Lindley vs. Walter L. Sullivan et al. Vanderburg C. C. Reversed. Miller, C. J.—While good pleading requires that in an action upon a note providing for attorney's fees the value of the services should be stated, evidence may be admitted without such averment and a recovery had for such fees, provided the whole recovery does not exceed the amount for which judgment is demanded in the complaint. 2. Where two defenses are joined, one triable by the court and one by a jury, the fact that the trial was had and evidence introduced only under the first paragraph did not make the ruling of the court submitting the cause to a jury made at the inception of the trial erroneous. 3. In the absence of a special contract the duty devolves upon the holder of notes held as collateral security of using reasonable but not extraordinary diligence in their collection, and upon a failure to realize the money due thereon through his own laches, the amount lost may be charged against him as a payment on the debt. The mere lapse of time and the fact that claims have not been collected do not of themselves necessarily show a want of reasonable diligence.

15921. Wm. A. Brunker vs. Robert J. Cummins. Sullivan C. C. Reversed. Elliott, J.—The appellee owns a building in Farmersburg, the lower part of which was occupied by him as a store-room and the upper part was leased to a lodge of Oddellows. A walk ran along the side of the building, and this was usually traversed by lodge members in going to and depart-ing from lodge meetings. The stairway was reached by ascending a platform raised several inches above the walk. A barrel was rolled upon the walk near the platform, and, in coming out of the lodge at night, appellant struck his foot against the barrel and was thrown down. The barrel seems to have been placed there by an agent of appellee in discharge of his general duties. The question whether or not the barrel so encroached upon the walk as will remain till after the Flower Mission to make it dangerous was one of fact for the judgment of the jury, and it was error to admit the opinions of witnesses on that point, 2. Remarks made by a judge in the presence of the jury during the progress of a trial, if material and improper, constitute prejudiciai error. 1630. Martha E. Leggett et al. vs. Abra-ham Lozier. Ohio C. C. Reversed. Coffey, J .- A complaint for the recovery of possession of real estate, which does not contain a sufficient description of the land sought to be recovered, is bad on demurrer. 2. The complaint states no cause of action against appellant Leggett, nor does it pray any relief as to her. It is insufficient. 15572. Charles Eppert et al. vs. Mary A. Hall. Clay C. C. Rehearing denied. Mc-Bride, J.—Delivery of a note may be constructive and yet as effectual to pass title as if it were actually placed in the hands of the payee.

NEW YORK PHILHARMONICS.

Unusually Fine Concert Before an Exceedingly Slender Audience.

The New York Philharmonic Club gave an unusually fine concert last night at Y. M. C. A. Hall, before an exceedingly slim audience. Seldom has a progamme so delightfully arranged been given in this city, and the artists presenting it are unsurpassed. The six members play so harmoniously that the fact that there are six instruments is scarcely realized, so perfect is their unison. The enthusiasm expressed by the few present was such that if the number had been greater the applause would have been deafening. The compositions given by the club were varied and admirably arranged. They gave a sextet by Heinrich Hofmaun, composed for and dedicated to the club. Romanze of St. Saens, Spanish dance of Fr. Cowen, "Liebestraum" of A. Czbueka, "Patrouille Enfantin" of E. Gillet, and the ever-popular Slavonic dance, No. 8, of Dvorak; and four memoers played the variations Op. 18, No. 5, of Beethoven. Each was truthfully interpreted. True praise of the soloists would seem extrayagant. The violoncello solo of Mr. Paul Miersch, the violin solo of Mr. Johannes Miersch and the flute solo of Mr. Eugene Weiner were thoroughly delightful. Miss Marion S. Weed, the vocalist, is entirely charming, with a beautiful mezzo soprano voice, cultivated and artistic in everything she does, with a sweet, unaf-fected manner and clear and distinct enunciation; one could not ask for more and be reasonable. Her first song was "Nobil Signor," from the "Hugenots," and in response to repeated calls she sang, "I've Something Sweet to Tell You." She was warmly greeted for her second numbers, "Romance," by Rubinstein, and "Only for One." by Randegger. Again she obliged to return, and sang daintiest little ballad in the most bewitching style. Those who love good music and did not hear the concert missed a treat not likely to be duplicated this nor any other season, unless the club should return. It is a pity that the new organization, the Young Woman's Christian Association, under whose auspices and for whose benefit the concert was given, should be out of pocket through lack of patronge for so excellent an entertainment.

WANTED TO RESCUE HIM.

Friends of an Arrested Thief Get Themselves Into Trouble.

About 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, as James Foley sauntered past the Famous cloak-house at the corner of Illinois and Market streets, he saw a cloak displayed in front of the store which struck him as being particularly desirable. He appropriated it to his own use and calmly continued his sauntering. In a few minutes the loss of the cloak was discovered, and Dominick Hall and James Brosnan, employed at the store, started in pursuit of the thief, who was overtaken at the corner of Mississippi and Ohio streets.

After regaining the garment. Foley was arrested by the two men, and with him they started for the store. They stopped with their prisoner at the Sentinel office to telephone for the patrol-wagon, and while waiting for its arrival quite a crowd as-sembled. In the crowd were Al Ross and William Nevius, who were urging the crowd to make a rush upon Hall and Brosnan and take the prisoner from them. About this time patrolmen Hagerman and Lyons appeared upon the scene, and the men ceased their efforts on behalf of the prisoner. Superintendent Colbert, learning of the facts, ordered the men arrested At the police station some racy pictures were found upon them, and they were slated for having obseene literature in their possession. Foley was slated for petit larceny.

Arabian Nights entertainment next week at Tomlinson Hall. Mrs. May Wright Sewall was the gnest of the Lafayette Woman's Club, yesterday afternoon, and addressed them on "Observations of Women's Work Abroad." In the evening Mrs. Sewall spoke to a general andience on Indiana's interests at the world's fair. Miss Margaret Barry gave a very pretty chrysanthemum tea yesterday afternoon, from 2 to 5 o'clock, at her home on North Meridian street. The event was in honor of Mrs. John W. Holcomb, of Washington, D. C., and the guests were the mutual friends of the hostess and Mrs. Holcomb.

The Dramatic Club presented the two plays, "The Marble Arch" and "My Uncle's Will," very successfully, last evening, at the Propylaum, for the benefit of the Free Kindergarten and Children's Aid Society. They were the same plays and same casts that were given Saturday night at the club. Mr. and Mrs. Edwin St. G. Rogers celebrated the fifteenth anniversary of their marriage last evening, at the home of Mrs. Rogers's father, Mr. J. S. Hildebrand, on Madison avenue, by giving a family dinner party. The house was beautifully adorned for the occasion, and the table appointments were handsome and in keeping with the event. Mr. and Mrs. Rogers were the recipients of some exquisite crystal gifts. PA very enjoyable entertainment was given last night, at Meridian-street Church, by the ladies of the Second section. Tasteful booths were fashioned, and attractions of various sorts were offered. A pleasing programme of music was given. including two violin solos by Miss Margaret Lockwood, piano solos by Mr. Hanson, and selections by the Baldheaded Quartet and Burgess Brown. The gathering was a success in every particular. The annual fair of the Flower Mission. to be called the Arabian Nights entertainment, will open one week from to-night at Temlinson Hall. The attraction for the first evening will be Mrs. Corinne Moore-Lawson, the famous Cincinnati singer. Mrs. Lawson is not only a fine vocalist, but a bandsome woman and a great society leader. After many attempts to get a date the amusement committee congratulate themselves upon their success in securing Mrs. Lawson for this year's fair.

$6.00-To Chicago and Return-$6.00 Via Pennsylvania Line from Indianapotis. MONUMENT'S CROWNING FIGURE.

Anxious to Exhibit It at the World's Fair-May Use the Plaster Model.

A letter was received yesterday by President Langedale, from the Chicago Bronze Company, in which permission was asked to make the bronze figure of Indians for the monument a part of the company's exhibit at the world's fair, It was suggested that the statue would be a magnificent advertisement of the State, and that the delay in erecting it upon the monument would be more than compensated for. The company also offered to erect the plaster model, colored with patina, so as to resemble bronze, upon a pedestal forty or fifty feet high in front of the Indiana building, at its ownexpense, in return for the favor asked.

"The idea," said President Langs-dale, "cannot be entertained for a moment. Indiana and Indianapolis want that statue in its place when the Grand Army encampment meets here. And then we want the monument completed so as to make Indianapolis a point of attraction for the great masses of visitors to the fair. The fame of this monu-ment has spread through European art circles, and I anticipate thousands of foreigners will come to Indianapolis to see it. So we must have it completed. I have been thinking, however, of making a suggestion to the bronze company that it erect the plaster cast, as it proposes, in front of the Indiana building. Colored to appear as bronze, it would make a striking attraction to the Indiana building, and would distinguish it from all the other State buildings in an incomparable way. The building, which is already the superior of any of the State buildings, would be still more aggrandized. And at the same time the sight of the cast would make keeper the desire of all art lovers to see the original, and that would bring them to Indianapolis. The bronze company would get about as much benefit from the adveritself on exhibition."

FLOWER MISSION.

Arabian Nights Entertainment to Be Given Next Week-Miss Talbott and Mrs. Lawson.

Indianapolis people will feel a peculiar interest in the performance of Miss Mae Talbott at the coming Flower Mission Arabian Nights Entertainment. She is the daughter of Mrs. Lida Hood Talbott, so well known here, is preparing for the stage, and has won the highest praise for her dancing in Chicago and elsewhere. She will appear on Wednesday evening, Dec. 7, at Tomlinson Hall.

Mrs. Corinne Moore Lawson will open the entertainment on Tuesday evening, Dec. 6, with a song recital. Society is much interested in her coming, as aside from her wonderful voice she is a woman of many graces, great beauty and a leader of social life in her home in Cincinnati.

AMUSEMENTS.

GRAND-"DARTMOOR." The audience that turned out at the Grand Opera-house last evening to witness the presentation of "Dartmoor" was all too small for the merits of the performance. "Dartmoor" is the story of Dick Venables, a convict who, in making his escape prison, kills a warder. Concealing his identity, he eludes for a time the vigilance of the authorities, but the toils slowly but surely tighten about him and in the end he dies from a pistol shot received while resisting arrest. The outlaw's wife is stanch and true, and through his varied vicissitudes gives a beautiful portrayal of wifely devotion and loyalty as described in books.

The part of Dick Venables is personated by Mr. J. H. Gilmour, who has few equals in this particular line of dramatic work.

Mr. Gilmour has the advantage of a com-manding presence, and his work is characterized by great strength and the rarest art-.Mrs. Lisle, the faithful wife, is presented by Miss Bettina Gerard, who in the dramatic. in this character, has scored even a more decided success than that achieved by here in the comic opera line. The company is strong and well balanced throughout. There is not a weak place in it, and, with a strong play in the hands of a thoroughly capable company, the interest is sustained from the first act until the curtain finally descends. "Dartmoor" will be repeated this evening and to-morrow evening, with Wednesday matinee.

PARK THEATER-"UNCLE HIRAM." "Uncle Hiram," which was presented at the Park yesterday, drew large audiences, and was received with prenounced demonstrations of approbation. It is a play of the "Joshua Whitcomb" order, having principally to do with the adventures of a countryman, and a very smart one at that, in New York city. He gets into all sorts of scrapes, and gets out of them in good style, and altogether has a very brisk and amusing experience. There is a story of crime and adventure connected with it all, and in the development of this two very striking and realistic stage effects are in troduced. One of these is a saw-mill, doing business in a very natural way, in which the old man is fastened to the sawcarriage, but gets off all right without being divided into two equal parts, and the other is a railroad scene, in which a train, that appears to be "real" enough to be really so, dashes across the stage, backs up, and does various other things. Both of these were cheered yesterday. Mr. Woodhull gives a natural impersonation of the "old jay," and makes much fun out of the part. Troja Griswold, a lively soubrette, with songs and dances, helps to make the performance a "go." "Uncle Hiram" evidently pleases the patrons of the Park. It will run all week, with matinees every day. "PAY TRAIN" AT THE EMPIRE. The "Pay Train," a realistic drama in which Miss Florence Bindley is starring. opened a week's engagement at the Empire yesterday afternoon. It is a play that ought to please. The comedy parts are in capable hands and there is enough of the far-Western-miner's camp atmosphere about it to delight those who like to revel in the midst of exciting scenes. In the third act is a realistic train scene that makes the bair stand up and the gallery appland vociferously. Miss Bindley is not only a clever little actress but she sings and dances very well, and is pretty. Some really new and catchy song are introduced, which is a blessing these days that ought to be appreciated. The plot of the play is not particularly original, but it is a plot and works out in a manner highly satisfactory to the audience. The "Pay Train" will be repeated every afternoon and evening throughout the week.

Bartley Campbell's "Siberia" will be the attraction at the Grand the latter part of this week. This is the eleventh year of this drama, and the fact that it has retained its hold upon the favor of the publie shows most conclusively that it must appeal very powerfully to the sympathy of the theater-goers.

Omene, the Turkish dancer who has been making something of a sensation in the East, is the chief attraction of Leavitt's Rentz-Santley Company, which is to give performances at English's next Saturday afternoon and evening. The new burlesque, "America, or the Discovery of Columbus," is another feature.

And Still They Are "Closed," Saturday night Andy Campbell, colored. and a man named Hogan, were the participants in a saloon fight in Linden's saloon, on Clifford avenue. Upon the affidavit of patrolman Caldwell, a warrant was issued for their arrest and Campbell was corralled and sent to the police station last night by

Says It Was a Malicious Jest

Saturday evening the Journal received a communication bearing the signature of D. A. Their future home will be near the National Card Company's plant, where the groom has prepared and furnished nicely a model home." This was published as an item of news, but last evening a young man appeared at the Journal office with this statement, signed by Robert A. Nagel: "The item in yesterday's Journal announcing the marriage of Robert Nagel and Miss May Ayers is flatly contradicted by that gentleman, who states that it is the malicious and ignorant jest of some unknown person."
